ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARDSHIP AS A PERSONAL CALLING

ANDREW HOFFMAN

Andrew Hoffman is the Holcim professor of sustainable enterprise at the University of Michigan's Ross School of Business and School of Natural Resources and Environment where he also is education director of the Graham Sustainability Institute.

His research looks at cultural and institutional aspects of environmental issues for organizations. He has published 13 books and more than 100 articles and book chapters. He earned his Ph.D. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

ALL LECTURES ARE FREE, OPEN TO THE PUBLIC AND BEGIN AT 7:30 P.M. IN THE MITCHELL AUDITORIUM.

These lectures are sponsored by the Alworth Center for the Study of Peace and Justice at the College of St. Scholastica and funded in part by the Warner Lectures Series of the Manitou Fund, the DeWitt and Caroline Van Evera Foundation and by Mary C. Van Evera in memory of William Van Evera, a former trustee of the college. Additional support has been received from the Global Awareness Fund of the Duluth-Superior Area Community Foundation, the Royal D. Alworth Jr. Institute at the University of Minnesota Duluth, the UMD Department of World Languages & Cultures, Reader Weekly of Duluth and from numerous other private donors.
